Advantages of the advarics cloud solution:

- All data and programs are available anytime and anywhere
- No local computer or server necessary
- All information and transactions available in real time, always
- Automatic installations and updates happen in the background
- All data encrypted and geo-redundantly secured

Your workplace and all related data, bookings and analysis,

Why Web Apps, what are they?

The cloud pipes data in your direction. The limitation is that you either need the right app, or software on the right device. Here, we've once again taken a completely new path, waving goodbye to these restrictions with the development of the first web app for merchandise management and POS.

With advarics as a web app, you are absolutely independent of hardware, terminal devices and app stores. All functions, transactions and analysis can be accessed and used via all common devices - smartphones, tablets, laptops or desktops, and without time-consuming installation.

And should the Internet ever be unavailable, no problem: The most important functions are also available offline.

always in real time and on any device.
